

Werner Niedermeier

Werner started his DJ career in the early 90s in Germany pioneering house in a "techno world". Travelling around the globe, Werner played to appreciative clubbers at prestigious venues such as Yellow (Tokyo), Fabric (London), Panorama Bar (Berlin) and Rex Club (Paris).

Tired of the same old sound and looking to do something new, he created his own label together with production partner Sefty called Soul Camp Recordings in 1999.

Werner went on to work with labels such as Tracks Of Interest, Liquid Sound Lounge, Sense Music, EFA and Patt Recordings. Werner also worked on remixes for artists like Reel People, Terry Callier, Lenny Fontana, Phonique, Worldless People and Robert Owens to name but a few.

After living in Berlin for many years, he decided to move to London after a one year stay in Majorca where he had DJ residencies at Pacha, Garito Café and Tito's.

In London he started to work at the infamous Flying Records Shop, joined the production outfit Notenshun and worked for Chillifunk Records as a studio engineer.

As Notenshun, together with Lofty, they released two Albums called 'Traffic' and 'Unfinished Business' and had numerous releases in cooperation with Sandy Mill, Ultra Nate, Ann Saunderson and remixed the likes of Nathan Haines, Spirit Catcher, Sequential Soul (GoGo Music), M-Swift & Diplomats Of Soul (Incognito). In 2006 he joined Miss Jools's monthly "Clandestino" event at Mr. C's AKA/The End as a resident DJ.

New releases and remixes on labels such as Phonica Records, Wandering (Mojuba), Mobilee, Blitz, Resopal, Catwash, Broque, Room With A View and BCBtec due to the period of 2007 to 2009.

2010 already started very busy again for Werner, with productions to be released on Blitz, Supplemental, Sweat Lodge Records, Broque and Bullet:Dodge as well as remixes for Guy Gerber and Pig & Dan on labels such as Boxer Recordings and Supplement Facts and a current release on Cocoon's Frank Lorber label Nummer Schallplatten.

Future releases include work with Sefty (Soul Camp), Varoslav (Supplement Facts), Igor Tchkutoua (Pig&Dan, Cocoon Rec), Gareth Whitehead (Bullet:Dodge, Back2Basics), SPN and Gumbo Jones.
